

The Scout Pennant from Randwick, Australia, which was found recently at Standish Hospital.

In the mid-1930s a 4 hundredweight replica of an old Cotswold milestone was quarried from Minchinhampton Common and sent 13,000 miles to Australia. The stone was a gift from the Scouts of Stroud and Tetbury District to Randwick, New South Wales, which owes its origin directly to Randwick in Gloucestershire and to one of its residents, Simon PEARSE in particular. He was one of the early emigrants to Australia and is accepted as the founder of the N.S.W. city in 1844. He was its first mayor and built the church of St. Jude, based on the one in Randwick, England. It is possible some descendants of the family still live in the area.

There was no Scout Troop in Randwick at the time, so the District took on the enterprise in 1937. One Saturday afternoon a trek cart was hauled from Crane Quarry, Minchinhampton by Rodborough Scouts to the Art Memorial Company in Stroud who carved the inscription "XXIX Milestone to the 1st Randwick N.S.W., greetings from Stroud and Tetbury Boy Scouts, Gloucestershire, 13,000 miles."

After being put on display in the town the milestone was loaded on to a rail truck at Stroud G.W.R. Station, for London, supervised by Netlam Bigg of Standish House Scouts and Harry Haines of Rodborough and was then given free passage to Sydney by Peninsula and Oriental SS Co. It was eventually erected in the grounds of St Jude's Church where, so far as is known, it still stands there.

Summer Camp 1964, The New Forest

Camp Site

Kit Inspection

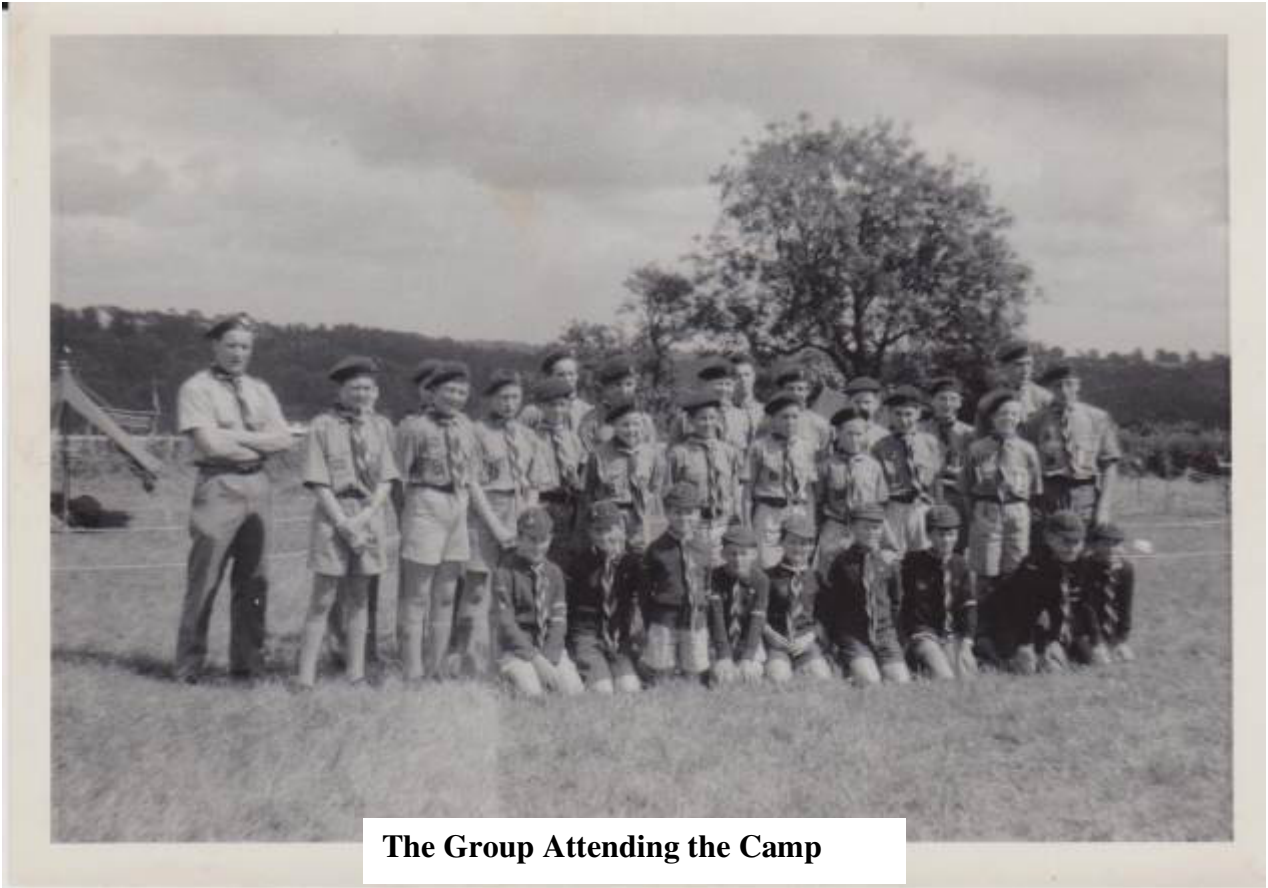

The Cooks Colin Clatworthy & Dave Westwood

Waiting for the Lorry Home

Miserden Chief Scouts Camp 1967.

The Chief Scout Sir Charles Maclean with D.C. Derek Yardley-Wright inspecting Randwick Scouts

Mrs Westwood (Vice President), Andrew Leach (Haggis) GSL & Mrs Twissell (Vice President) at Group's 50th.

Mrs Westwood, Mrs Twissell & Mrs Haines at Group's 50th, long standing members of the Group Supporters

Pictures of Cotswold Jamboree 1980 Selsley parts of the campsite

Visit to Cotswold Jamboree 1980 by Chief Scout Sir William Gladstone with Dave Westwood and County Commissioner Dr. Bob Lyle

Dave Westwood, Andrew Leach (Haggis), Mike Parker seated Pete Jones outside sub site marquee.